Gynecology

We have general gynecology section where we treat menopausal syndrome, PMS (Premenstrual Syndrome), menstrual disorders including those caused by endometriosis and uterine-fibromas. We also perform medical screening for breast and uterine cancers.

Infertility Treatment

With the recent trend toward late marriages, the number of couples suffering from infertility is increasing. Along with infertility, women also have many concerns relating to ovarian function, such as menstrual and postmenstrual symptoms, menopause, and other concerns throughout their lives. In particular, patients with premature ovarian insufficiency(POI), experience a lack of female hormones along with intractable infertility. Therefore hormone replacement therapy is required for all POI patients to maintain health along with infertility treatment if the patient desires.

- (1) Treatment for ovarian hypofunction and infertility due to advancing age, and general infertility therapy applying such expertise.
- (2) Lifelong health maintenance for women based in hormone replacement therapy and hormonal adjustment.

Our clinic specializes in research and treatment of infertility caused by ovarian insufficiency, a type of intractable infertility. While there are many causes and the treatment method is still not fully established, we have gradually collected evidence from our extensive experiences at the clinic. We provide more practical treatment methods according to the needs of each patient, based on these evidence. Our practice is not limited to treatment of infertility. We also provide optimal support to enable women to maintain their health.
